FIGHTING SHY OF IRISH CUSTOMS SERVICE.

A fresh illustration of the spirit in which the Home Rule scheme is viewed by those likely to be onest nearly affected by it reaches me through Somer-st House. There are about 800 officers employed the Irish customs service. Of those a respectable fraction have, since the publication of the text of the bill, made application to be transferred to Great Britain as soon as possible, and where recencies have occurred there has been the greatest difficulty in securing candidates in Ireland. CATALOGUE OF THE GREAT SPITZER SALE.

The catalogue of the great Spitzer sale has just and a portfolio of nearly seventy photographs, and even on this prodigal scale it is rather a businessthe than an artistic publication. It is an extraor-dinary, thing that the sale should be necessary, for me collection, which is nothing short of a complete cluny or South Kensington Museum ready made, is all to have been offered entire for £500,000, a mique opportunity for a millionaire with a native town on hand or a peerage in his eye. However, the chance has been let slip and the collection is to be scattered under the hammer. The sale will beat the Spitzer Hotel, Paris, on April 17, and EDMUND YATES.

INCIDENTS IN SOCIETY.

Mrs. Forbes-Leith gave a brilliant reception last night at her house, No. 40 Park-ave, for Captain and Mrs. Charles Rosdew Burn, the latter being the daughter of the hostess. Captain Burn is an aidedecamp to the Duke of Connaught. The marriage of Miss Ethel Forbes-Leith to him in London, July 22, 1891, was one of the brilliant occurrences of that season, when the Duke and Duchess of Connaught, ess Louise, the Marquis of Lorne, Lord and Lady puffdin and many other people of prominence were present. The drawing-room of the Forbes-Leith house was beautifully decrated with American beauty toses, spring flowers were used on the tapestried walls and the dining-room, where a buffet supper was served by Sherry during the hours of the reception. There was a profusion of roses. The Russian Court bant played in the drawing room. Miss Bessie Clarke, who me of the bridesmaids at Miss Leith's wedding, esisted in receiving. ### RETURN OF ROSE COGHLAN.

Miss Rose Coghlan, as handsome and as potential as ever, made her re-entrance upon the New-York stage, last night, appearing at the Fifth Avenue Theatre as the Countess Zicka, in Mr. Sardou's fine play of "Diplomacy," and she was welcomed by a numerous audience. Mr. Charles Coghlan, who was to appear as Henry Beauclere, was unable to act. Mr. Sullivan played Julian. This representation is not a novelty, but it is just as important as if it were-for an interesting play, exceedingly well acted, is a source of much benefit and love the same man, and one of those women, after he has made his chalce, turns from love to hate, and pursues him with a vindictive, malicious, subtle scheme of persecution, till he is well nigh dis-graced and ruined. The story is well remembered. Mr. Sardon has told it with delightful skill. The form of the drama is excellent. Its views of woman's na ture, one might hope, are not absolutely true. A more unpleasant female than the Countess Zicka has seldom been provided to the stage. Beauty and passion do not extenuate depravity. Miss Coghlan, however, has made that character the vehicle for a most impressive manifestation of her fine dramatic powers and especially the revelation of her deep sensibility, her passionate temperament and her ample resources of raillery, sarcasm and icy scorn. The plea that is set up for cyll-doing women-by reference to antecedents, bad environment and generally unfavorable circumstancesbecomes quite formidable when enforced by this beau-tiful weman; yet, apart from the charm of her presence and her voice, it remains as fallacious as ever. Bad natures and bad deeds are bad, and no sophistry Bad natures and bad deeds are bad, and no sophistry will ever make them anything else. People who do not get what they want are not, for that reason, justifies in evil conduct, nor are they the proper objects of sympathy. Miss Coghlan has expended a vast amount of energy and fire upon her assumption of the Countess Zicker and the performance is full of art; yet it is the action, and not the embodiment, that the observer admires and remembers.

AN EPIDEMIC OF SORE THROAT.

PHYSICIANS KEPT BUSY BY CALLS UPON THEIR

SKILL-CAUSES OF THE DISEASE. The dampness and poison in the atmosphere in this city, caused by the melting of the snow banks and the vapor which rises constantly from the filth in the streets, have produced a widespread epidemic of sore threats, have produced a was swelling of the lymphatic glands. Physicians said yesterday that their attention had been called to an unusual number of cases of lymphadenitis, the technical name for swelling of the lymphatic glands, and they thought the trouble was caused by the poison in the atmosphere.

Health Commissioner Joseph D. Bryant, said: weather has been unfavorable for the health of the public lately. The constant dampness and the frequent changes of temperature have caused much bronchial trouble. There is a sort of clammy feeling in the air that reminds one of the interior of a refrigerator in a butcher's shop, not to speak of the smells. It is somewhat problematical as to the cause of lymphatic trouble. The swelling of the glands i often caused by septic poison. It is safe to assume that poison of some kind causes the trouble. My impression is that the weather has been too cold lately to permit of much decomposition in the accuculated garbage in the streets. The streets should be cleaned as soon as possible, however, because warm

The physicians who make a specialty of throat troubles have never been more busy than they are at the present time. They say the sufferers from grip and colds flock by the hundreds to their receptions. The physicians wer? never more popular. The increase of the number of cases of pneumonia is especially noticeable. Last week there were 219 deaths from pneumonia, an increase of fifty over the number which occurred during the previous week. "There has been an unusually large number of cases of "There has bon an unusually large n throat and lung diseases this winter," said Dr. Abraham Jacobi last evening. They are due to the presence of great quantities of snow and slush which were left in the streets, and to the unwholesome vapors which emanate from the filth and garbage. Even the animals have been affected. The city should be put in a sanitary condition as a safeguard against the spread of throat and pulmonary diseases."

"Pneumonia and pleurisy," said Dr. Francis Delnfield, "are prevalent just now. There is an unusually large number of cases. It is difficult to advance a theory which will thoroughly account for such an epidemic. The sanitary condition of the city may be responsible for part of it. All I know is that it is a fact that there are a large number of cases of throat responsible for part of it. All I know is that it is a fact that there are a large number of cases of throat and lung trouble."

Dr. Alfred L. Loomis said that in his experience he had found throat and lung diseases more than usually valent for this season of the year.

A man fell from the upper gallery to the orchestra, and falled to break his neck. He was Nicholas Crane, of No. 512 West Twenty-seventh-st. He was pushing his way to the front of the upper gallery just before the time for the curtain to rise for a spairing match. By some accident, which notody in the theatre could explain later. Crane nobody in the theatre could explain later, Crane stumbled and fell over the gallery railing. Going down he struck against the railing of the first gallery, and then bounded to the orchestra, where he landed broadside on the head and shoulders of two men. Two hats were crushed, but the men escaped injury. Ushers caught hold of Crane and dragget him out of the theatre as the curtain went up. The geddent did not cause much disturbance in the theatre. Crane was found to be suffering from internal injuries, and the police sent him to the New-York Hospital.

A LECTURE ON " DARKEST LONDON."

At Doly's Theatre yesterday morning Mrs. Maud Howe Elliott delivered her new lecture, relating her experiences with the Salvation Army while in London, and she will again lecture on the same subject to-day and en Thursday and Friday, at II o'clock. An appreciative audience flifel the theatre and listened with interest to the story of Mrs. Elliott's visits to the various institutions organized by the Salvation Army. The lecture conveys the impression that much good is done by the Army, and that these missions reach a class either beneath the notice or beyond the power of other religious or charitable bodies. Mrs. Elliott's personal charm of manner enhances the pathos and humor of the many striking passares she reads, and should insure her success in the present course and in any future effort of the came kind. She touches a higher note than that of mere arems to have awakened the feelings of curlosity and to Rosenquest. It was decided to give the testimonial at the Academy of Music on April 6. Mr. Palmer The result of these personal experiences is now given in the Academy of the committee in charge and there is also much tenderness in the descripa series of vivid pictures. # EX-SENATOR DAWES HONORED.

A BANQUET TENDERED TO HIM BY HIS ASSO-

CIATES IN THE SENATE. Washington, March 13 .- Ex-Senator Henry L. Dawes whose continuous service of thirty-six years as representative of Massachusetts in Congress, equally divided between the uppor and lower branches, ended on his voluntary retirement, was com night at the Arlington. It was tendered to him by members of the Senate irrespective of party, and was in-tended to express their admiration and affection for one whose integrity of character and charming manner rendered him most worthy of the honor. The invi tation to Mr. Dawes was engrossed on a mammeth sheet of parchment, and embodied an expression of the sentiments entertained toward him by the men who asked him to be their guest on this occasion. The invitation was signed by seventy Senators who had served with Mr. Dawes, and who are now members of the Senate. Covers were laid for slxly-five, the only persons present beside signers of the invitation being Henry Cabot Lodge, Mr. Dawes's successor in the Senate General A. G. McCook, Secretary of the Senate; Sergeant-at-Arms E. K. Valentine; C. B. Reade, assistant doorkeeper, and E. E. Wight.

Senator W. B. Allison, chalrman of the Commit-tee on Appropriations (with whom Mr. Dawes had served nearly his entire term in the Senate), as toast-master, introduced the first speaker of the evening. Senator Gray, of Delaware, who responded to the toast, "The President of the United States." The other formal toasts with the names of those who reother formal tensis with the names of those who responded were: "Our Honored Buest," S. nator Hoar and Senator Cockrell; "The Supreme Court of the United States," Justice Gray; "The Congress of the United States," Senator Sherman; "The State of Massachusetts," Senator Lodge; "Lo, the Poor Indian," Senator Jones, of Arkansas, Senator Dawes's acknowledgments followed the remarks of his late colleague Senator Hoar. He re-sponded with much emotion to the complimentary references to his career and character made by Sen ators Allison, Cockrell and Hoar. The latter made quite a long response to the toast, going into the de tails of Mr. Dawes's honorable life, in connection with the history of the State he had so faithfully repre-

the history of the State he had so have sented.

The toast allotted to Senator Jones was in allusion to Senator Dawes's extended service at the head of the Committee on Indian Affairs, to which office Senator Jones will succeed.

After the formal list of toasts had been disposed of there were a number of volunteer speeches, all breathing the good-fellowship that is characteristic of the associations in the Senate of the United States, and wishing for Mr. Dawes a happy and prosperous retirement. Mr. Dawes and family leave Washington to-morrow for Pittsfield, Mass., their old home.

IN THE FIELD OF LABOR.

SWITCHMEN WILL NOT STRIKE.

Chicago, March 13 .- It is Tertain now that the Chicago switchmen will not go out on a strike, they having returned an answer to the general managers The switchmen were somewhat astonished by the array of public sentiment against any strike at this time, almost every paper in the city having declared that the attempt savored too much of an attempt at extortion because of the immense amount of traffic incident to the World's Fair. Besides this, the general managers were so well prepared for a strike that there was but small chance of the men being successful.

Vice-Grand Master Downey, of the Switchmen's Association, to-day presented to the general managers of the ratireads running into this city the official declaration of the switchmen, accepting the answer of the general managers refusing an increase of pay, and stating that no further action would be taken in the matter by the switchmen without sufficient notice being given to everybody concerned.

"I don't anticipate a strike," said Mr. Downey ofter he had delivered the document, "One could not be declared inside of six weeks, were we so disposed. Perhaps after the Fair is over, and the records show that the railroads have had a particularly prosperous time, the switchmen may ask for more pay. ## OBITUARY.

EDWARD A. MOORE. Edward A. Moore, Sergeant-at-Arms of the Assem bly, died on Saturday at the home of his sister, No. 309 Halsey-st., Brooklyn. His death was due to cancer of the stomach. Mr. Moore was born in 1828, and was a bricklayer in early life in this city. He began to take an active interest in politics while young, and became associated with "Prince Harry" Genet, of the Tweed Ring, and secured lucrative con-tracts for sewers and pavements in Harlem, and built many honses. His money he invested in property on Staten Island, and became a Democratic leader in Richmond County before the exposure of the Tweed Ridg. It was at his house on Staten Island that W. M. Tweed was concealed before he was taken on board the steamship by which he was carried to Spain and turned over to United States authorities and brought back to this country. Genet also was cou-cealed at Moore's house, and lived on his place in the guise of a laborer. He remained there for a year and a half, while active search was made for him abroad, and reappeared when it was possible for him to settle the proceedings against him in the courts. At one time Moore was a member of the Assembly, At one time Moore was a member of the Assembly, and he was prominent at every Democratic convention and caucus as sergeant-at-arms, and held that office in the Assembly whenever the Democrats controlled it. At the Chicago Democratic Convention last year he was assistant sergeant-at-arms. In the subways of politics the dead man was expert, and he believed that he was intrusted with important secrets, and many plans of magnitude were carried out by him. His funeral will take place at his home, at Dongan Huls, S. I.
